Health and Beauty

If you are still wearing your brows in a thin, artificially pencilled line, your lips in a Cupid's bow, your rouge in round dots over each cheeck, you are doing yourself a great injustice. Learn how to apply makeup so that it looks natural and plays up your best features.

Make your eyes as interesting as you can. Mascara is a boon to drab eyelashes. Use a waterproof type and apply to the upper lashes only. After the mascara has dried, brush through lashes with a clean dry eyelash brush to prevent a beady appearance.

Choose your foundation with consideration of your coloring and the texture of your skin. Never let there be an obvious line of demarcation below the chin. Work your foundation upward from the base of your neck.

Determine the shape of your face and place your rouge so it will compliment your face. There are three types of rouge to choose from — cream, liquid, and dry. Most women prefer the cream type for the natural look of color it gives. However, if your skin is oily, you should use the dry or fluid type. It is a good idea to put all rouge under your foundation unless directions with the rouge say different.

After you have applied your foundation and rouge and one application of lipstick and blotted the lipstick well, it is time to apply powder. The color and the weight of powder are both important. Most women look best when they use a light-weight powder. Apply a dusting of loose powder to the entire face and neck area — lips included. Use a make-up brush or a sift clean puff to brush away the extra amounts of powder.

Now apply your last coat of lipstick and allow it to set for a few minutes while you complete your makeup.

Brush any excess powder from your hairline and from brows and lashes. Now use mascara or a bit of oil on your lashes and eyelids. If you are going to use eyeshadow, do not put oil on your lids.

If you must,, now is the time to change or enhance your brow line. Use a soft crayon pencil to fill in the brow and then brush over with a light touch of oil to give gloss.

Some women like to press a damp cloth over the completed makeup to "set" it.. You can try this and may find it to your liking.

Carver-Price School News

Hello Readers!

Mr. L. E. Smith, Balfour ring representative, talked with the seniors Monday, Oct. 15, on the selection of their rings and invitations. A beautiful onyx stone ring was selected and seniors will receive them for Christmas. Attractive invitations were also selected.

The Senior Class had its regular weekly meeting on Tuesday, Oct. 16 at activity period. Class motto selected was: "Opportunity Wears A Smiling Face." Class colors are Navy Blue and White, and class flower is Red Rose. Three one-act plays are being ordered for presentation. Laura Fleshman, president, presided.

A Pre-Hallowe'en Costume Dance is being sponsored on October 27, at 8:00 P. M. Remember this date, for it is going to be fun as the committee has planned.

The two day Teachers' meeting theme was "Improving Instruction in Relation to the Growth of the Child Through an Inservice Educational Program." Mr. H. H. Hatchett, Assistant State Supervisor of Music, spoke on the County Music Program on Thursday morning, and the importance of music in a school program. The afternoon session was a Science Panel and Exhibit, with Mrs. C. D. Beasley as chairman. Participating were: Mrs. G. Lee, Miss Jessie Lester, Mrs. M. F. West, Mrs. Frankie Hale, Miss Mimi Johnson, Miss H. B. Stephens, and Mr. Williams. A most interesting exhibit was seen in the Science Laboratory, of science work being conducted in the various classrooms. On Friday, Mrs. Faulkner, General Supervisor, Buckingham County, spoke on the Reading Program and its importance from grades one to twelve. Phonics was stressed and many other approaches to improvement of reading.

Superintendent J. A. Burke and Supervisor Aubrey Keesee were in attendance at the sessions. Mrs. Mozella J. Price, Supervisor, and Principal R. E. Patrick supervised the planning and carrying out of the workshop.

The individual perfect attendance record for the ninth grade homeroom is as follows: Ella Morgan, Serena Humbles, Barbara Thornton, Virginia Patterson, Vatetta McCoy, Barbara Tibbs, Ora Scruggs, Doris Tibbs, Ernest Austin, Sherman Flowers, Robert Perkins, Robert Mooreman, and Frances Austin.

The Tenth Grade Class is working on a project that will enable them to get to know their classmates better and develop class spirit. The idea of the moment is a Gallup Poll to find by whom are these qualities and features possessed in our class.

The most popular boy and girl.
The neatest boy and girl.
The most courteous boy and girl.
The most industrious boy and girl.
The most co-operative boy and girl.
The quietest boy and girl.
The most dependable boy and girl.
The friendliest boy and girl.
The shortest boy and girl.
The tallest boy and girl.
The best singer boy and girl.
The best dancer boy and girl.
The best attendance boy and girl.

We close with this thought for the week:

"Oh Lord of Courage grave,
Oh Master of this night of Spring!
Make firm in me a heart too brave
To ask Thee anything."

REASONABLE ANSWER

Fort Madison, Iowa.- In answer to the question of The Presidio, magazine of the Iowa State Penitentiary, addressed to a half dozen prisoners: "Why do you think you are in prison?" one convict replied, "I got caught."

The Government has sought to stimulate housing construction by easing the pinch in mortgage money. It also moved to reduce the down payments required of buyers of low-cost homes.
